

RWF/RWS The Adelphi Experience 2012

Report on the residential weekend: Communications. Fri-Sun 23-25th November

See full programme for this, as the end of this Report.

This event organised by RWF, in association with: the RW Society which organised the Key-note lecture on the Saturday afternoon; Philosophy in Pubs (PiPs); the Esperanto Association of Britain (EAB) which ran its own Drondoj (discussion circles) throughout the weekend; the WEA which was represented by activist stalwarts from Biggleswade, Kidderminster ...

68 were resident at the Adelphi with six non-residents, and some occasional visitors...

More than 40 written, with ten more verbal responses have been received – so the views of a high percentage of participants are represented here.

The education and learning experience (each quote, separated below, from a different person)

Debates on varied topics: ‘models of what a democratic discussion group should be’; ‘fine examples of co-operative self-helping adult education’; Fellow participants - ‘a delight... inspiring a feeling of community... warmth, openness, kindness – let’s do it again!’; ‘What a wonderful group of people...skilled facilitators’; ‘great topics...excellent’; ‘...so stimulating and thought provoking... a wonderful opportunity now to set up something in S. Wales’; ‘excellent ambiance’; ‘fantastic range of subjects... good to get notes beforehand’; ‘great to have so much info... and meeting people from all over the country...sharing experiences’; ‘My first... the whole experience beneficial... rewarding ...opened new doors’; ‘..discussion sessions rather than ‘talks’ very welcome...’; ‘...my first time... a really good idea; thanks for subsidy – it really helped’; ‘range of discussion topics very well organised..’

Specific sessions praised: (Nb - no seriously negative comments received on any discussion sessions and these below each had several positive comments):

‘Social and political perspectives: a great introduction...’; Communications: ‘...amazed at how such a deep discussion could take place on children’s comics...’; World wide web ‘...my favourite session’; The Mona Lisa ‘ the best for me...’; Dad’s Army ‘...another brilliant discussion...’; World without war ‘...my first experience on views of pacifists... I was shocked... says more about me than them... made me think deeply...’; Sandel - ‘thoroughly enjoyed’; Women and Media ‘ a good (process) to find out and interpret...’; Marx/Occupy/Consumerism sessions ‘good discussions - which could have gone on longer...’; Tressell ‘outstanding’, ‘really enjoyed... so well researched’... ; Poetry and Pub Methodology sessions ‘fascinating’... ‘useful and practical’

Constructively critical and more negatively...

‘the only problem: facilitators trying to manage people who don’t know when they’ve said too much’ and ‘very few problems with dominant voices - but there were some...’

Issues with the notes in advance (for several): too many, confusing process, e-mail and computer problems.... Solution/s: all published in advance on web-site; smaller number of key notes sent to everyone in advance; more copies available for everyone on arrival.

‘sessions with notes worked best...’; ‘narrow age group’; ‘discussion circles too large...’ (two stressed this); ‘some discussions could have gone on longer....’

Key-note lecture

Within the weekend, on the Saturday afternoon, The Raymond Williams Society held its annual lecture. This was open to all booked on the weekend. The Lecture, entitled Scouse: A Social and Cultural History, was given by Tony Crowley - Hartley Burr Alexander Chair in the Humanities, Scripps, California and Honorary Visiting Professor at the Institute of Irish Studies, University of Liverpool.

There was a good turn-out (about 100) for the Key-note Lecture, which was followed by a Liverpool University Press sponsored reception at which Tony’s recently published LUP book, with the same title, was for sale. A healthy number of copies were sold ....

The Adelphi Hotel as venue

Exceptional range of views on this venue –

From: ‘great, comfortable, well placed’; ‘stunning’; ‘remarkable public rooms’ ; ‘staff lovely’; ‘very happy to have stayed in this ‘shabby-chic’ institution’; ‘great for a nostalgic scouse like me’; ‘excellent value’ ; ‘fascinating’; ‘food good’; ‘excellent service by staff; ‘amazing place; ‘unusual and intriguing venue’; ‘great to be able to walk out into Liverpool’; ‘meeting rooms, great’ ; ‘great venue – a real place’ etc..

To: ‘badly run’; ‘my room was ice-cold’; ‘cavernous and claustrophobic’; ‘Kafkaesque – frequently got lost...’; ‘a dystopian experience’; ‘food awful’; ‘no good for vegetarians’ ‘poor beer’; ‘temperatures too hot, then too cold...’; ‘needs a very good clean’; ‘bedroom keys that don’t work’; noise, problems of access with no-go zones making long walk to bedrooms and back ‘a small nightmare’; health and safety issues etc ...

A case of parallel universes - were we staying in the same place?

Subsidy issues

With the support of grant from the Westham House Fund RWF had no real problem with the Adelphi subsidy which brought the fees down to a remarkable budget-value rate, enabling such a large residential booking from all over the UK. Even so, this was a risk - offering substantial financial support to all participants across three educational charities (RWF, RWS and the Esperantists – EAB). This event was a terrific example of charities working to help each other, which the CC recommends.

The Future - 2013 (25th year of RWF weekends)

There was strong support for more similar to the above, but smaller scale maybe. Plus, specific potential mentioned for future themes, for examples 'Future of the NHS'; 'Scottish Independence' 'Facilitator training' ...

During 2013 it has been suggested we branch out - with residential events in East Anglia; Berwick-upon-Tweed; Wortley Hall, near Sheffield; Coleg Harlech, N Wales; The Grange, Ellesmere, Shropshire; Shallowford House, mid-Staffs; The above could be for about 25 residents each - more modest affairs!

Most importantly, the 25th annual RW weekend tradition. Proposal – next year a mid-week booking, as this year at Wortley Hall. WH has again offered a good budget

Wed-Fri 8-10th May for up to 40 bedrooms (ie up to 50 or more participants) Programme and e-leaflet will be posted on the web- site for this shortly

November 2013 - another combined event (with RWS etc)? Decision on that will rest primarily on RWS with combined AGM and annual RW Lecture... Venue – mid/Southern England? Watch this space.
